THANKSGIVING LET US GIVE THANKS

For A Legacy That Makes Us Americans

There's a lot to be remembered on this holiday. A glance at American history proves that it's so.

Hardships overcome by men who sought freedom. A new nation founded through vision and dedication. For then and for now . . . let us join and be thankful.

THE NORTH WEST FACTS

Fort Lewis Is Making Changes

FORT LEWIS, WA.--The inside story here is that Fort Lewis is changing on the inside, and rapidly.

"Within the next two years, there probably won't be anyone on Fort Lewis living in open bays," said Captain Lee D. Shafer of the Pacific District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

"We're in the process of changing all those open bays into two, three, and four-man rooms."

Contractors have completed 20 buildings with about 45 to go.

"All of the brick and concrete block troop billets on Fort Lewis are in the process of being remodeled," he added. "The renovation project should be completed in about two years."

Three construction companies are at work on the project, which is well ahead of schedule. "At the present rate, the job should be finished in about 18 months," Captain Shafer said.

"There are also plans to build a new brigade-sized living complex near the 2nd Brigade headquarters."

This 33-million dollar complex will have two-man sleeping quarters with a bathroom for each bedroom. The bedrooms will be placed around a central living room, one living room for every four bedrooms.

"It's visualized as having just sleeping and recreation areas in these buildings," the Captain said. "Orderly rooms and supply rooms will be in another building."

The three-story buildings will include two day rooms and about 88 two-man bedrooms.

Construction of the new barracks will start next summer, with completion slated for late in 1978.

Anne Sundgreen Attends Education Meeting

Anne Sundgren, sociology instructor at Tacoma Community College, last week attended a special gathering of the American Sociological Association Undergraduate Education Committee in St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. Sundgren represented a branch of the Undergraduate Education Committee which is studying the progression of sociology courses through college.

At the St. Louis gathering she met representatives of the eight task force groups of the committee.

The committee hopes to draft a proposed sociology curriculum for all colleges and universities in the country, Mrs. Sundgren explained.

1st Runner - Up in Miss Universe Pageant

PORT-AU-PRINCE, HAITI -- Gerthie David, Miss Haiti, and first runnerup in the 1975 Miss Universe Pageant, appears to be about as fierce as a brown velvet kitten. But the dark-eyed beauty--who made history as the first black ever to reach the finals of the pageant--can be a real tiger on the subject of women's liberation.

"Women in Haiti are more or less bound by tradition," she says. "For centuries they have followed customs passed along from generation to generation. I think many women everywhere are totally unaware of the opportunities which exist for them." She hopes to accelerate recognition for Haitian women through her role as Miss Haiti, a position which has whisked her from obscure student to national heroine. Her homecoming after the Miss Universe victory became almost a national holiday.

Gerthie also wants to repay her country for sending her to the pageant--she was sponsored by the Haiti National Office of Tourism and was the first contestant from the island since 1968--by introducing Haiti to potential new visitors.

"I have been quite surprised," she said, hiding a trace of indignation, "at the number of people who have asked me where Haiti is, is it in France, or Africa, or the South Pacific? I want to be an ambassador for my country. The happiest day of my life was when I was chosen as Miss Haiti."

Although only 20, Gerthie is cooly elegant, a striking 5 foot 8 inch packet of poise, with 120 lbs. artfully distributed 34-26-36. A part-time model in her home city of Port-au-Prince, she plans to attend the Academie of Fine Arts there for one year before going to Chicago to study interior design. She speaks fluent French, English and Spanish.

In her long range plans, "maybe when I'm about 26" is marriage. Current favorite in that department is 20-year-old Phillippe Dodard, a Port-au-Prince artist who tried to discourage her from entering the Miss Haiti contest.

Her mother, Mrs. Eline David, a mathematics, French and history teacher, teasingly told her lovely daughter it would be "a good chance to show off." "When I came home with the Miss Haiti crown" Gerthie laughed, "my Mother asked me if the real queen has given it to me. I joke so much she didn't believe I had won."

Just as skeptical was Gerthie's brother, Odnell', jr., a Port-au-Prince engineer. "He called after the pageant and I told him I was the first runnerup to Miss Universe and he said, 'Come on, girl, be quick, tell the truth.' A day later, after he read the news he called and congratulated me."

Gerthie's father, a brilliant lawyer, died when she was three. In addition to her mother and brother, the family includes two sisters--Maude, 22, who just finished secretarial school, and Michelle, 18, who is studying medicine in Chicago. With half of her thousand dollar prize money Gerthie wants to visit Michelle. With the other half, "I will buy dresses."

Mushrooms, cooked with rice Haitian-style, and chocolate cake are her favorite dishes. She doesn't drive, and won't ride a bicycle because she's afraid of falling off. She also is deathly afraid of "those awful red worms that crawl in wet places." The brown velvet kitten shivers at the very thought.

Daniel Smith Resigns From TCC Board

Daniel C. Smith, member of the Tacoma Community College board of trustees since spring resigned from the board during a special meeting last Thursday afternoon.

Smith said he was leaving the board because he was moving to Chicago and retiring from his position as vice-president and general manager of Weyerhaeuser in Tacoma.

In other board business, trustees honored Mrs. Bonivieve Waggoner for ten years of service as secretary to the Dean of Student Services between July, 1975 and September, 1975.

The board also approved the transfer of $35,524 from the Associated Students of TCC reserve fund to the student operational budget. The money will be spent on the college work-study program, tutorial services and student identification cards.

The ASTCC pep club will be allocated $900 for the pep staff.

The next board meeting is set for December 18, starting at 2 p.m. in the John H. Binns room in Building I at TCC.

Right On... FROM THE PUBLISHER'S PEN

I SHALL PASS THIS WAY BUT ONCE THEREFORE ANY GOOD THAT I CAN DO OR ANY KINDNESS THAT I CAN SHOW LET ME DO IT NOW FOR I SHALL NOT PASS THIS WAY AGAIN.

I agree completely with the Civil Rights organizations in urging automatic cut-off of revenue sharing to states and localities that discriminate on the basis of race and sex. Those who are insensitive to the harmful results of bias are claiming that such opposition imperils extension of the $30 billion federal program which expires next year.

The whole thrust of the revenue sharing bonanza was to allow local government to spend funds as it saw fit without what some say is "papa knows best" dictation by Washington. Papa does not always exercise appropriate wisdom. In this instance some of the states and localities are using funds allocated to them in a manner that keeps minorities from deriving any benefits at all from the revenue sharing program.

Now this is one of the arenas in which to fight discrimination. A parade of mayors and governors whined and screamed that failure by congress to continue the program would have devastating impact on state and local finances and even impede national recovery. Very well. If revenue sharing is urgently needed, why imperil its continuation with racial or sex discrimination? RIGHT ON!

Stanley S. Scott Sworn In As A.I.D. Assistant Administrator For Africa

Stanley S. Scott, shown here being congratulated by Secretary of State Kissinger, was sworn in Nov. 10, 1975, as Assistant Administrator for Africa of the Agency for International Development.

Stanley S. Scott was sworn in Nov. 10, 1975, as Assistant Administrator, Bureau for Africa, Agency for International Development. He is shown here with Senator Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, who administered the oath of office. Mrs. Scott holds the Bible used in the ceremony.

Stanley S. Scott was sworn in today as Assistant Administrator, Bureau for Africa, Agency for International Development. He succeeds Dr. Samuel C. Adams, Jr., who retired September 30.

In the presence of scores of friends and associates, Scott was administered the oath of office by Senator Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts.

Scott's appointment to the post by President Ford was confirmed by the Senate on October 22. A member of the White House staff since June 1971, he had served as Assistant to the President for minority affairs since 1973. Previously, he was Assistant to the Director of Communications for the Executive Branch.

As a presidential assistant, Scott participated in a 1974 State Department conference of U.S. ambassadors to the Sahelian countries at Abidjan, Ivory Coast, to review the U.S. Government relief and recovery efforts for the drought areas. He later visited Upper Volta, Ghana, Nigeria and Liberia.

He has been a presidential representative on delegations to various domestic and foreign conferences. Also, Scott has lectured widely on journalism and government affairs.

Before joining the White House staff, Scott served for four years as a radio newsman at Westinghouse Broadcasting Corporation in New York City. He was an Assistant Director of Public Relations for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in New York (1966-1967); general assignment news reporter, United Press International, New York (1964-1966); general assignment news reporter, copy editor, and editorial writer, Atlanta Daily World, Atlanta, Ga. (1961-1964); and and editor-general manager, Memphis World, Memphis, Tenn. (1960-1961).

Born in Bolivar, Tenn. July 2, 1933, Scott attended Palmer Memorial Institute, a preparatory school in Sedalia, N.C.; the University of Kansas in Lawrence (1951-1953); and Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Mo. (1957-1959), where he received his B.S. Degree in journalism. He served in the U.S. Army from 1954-1956, including one year in Korea.

Scott is married to the former Bettye Lovejoy. They have three children and reside in Washington, D.C.

Opportunities For Blacks Would Be Improved Under Proposed Education - Work Strategy

Blacks stand to gain especially from an education-work strategy proposed by former Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz and the National Manpower Institute (NMI) in a report that will be released Friday.

Offering a wide range of proposals to develop "a lifetime continuum of education and work opportunities" for all Americans, The Boundless Resource: A Prospectus for an Education/Work Policy devotes particular attention to young blacks for whom career guidance and counseling are inadequate and adult blacks whose access to and advancement in the work place are limited by insufficient schooling.

Mr. Wirtz and his NMI associates maintain that "although the high unemployment rates for black teenagers have been widely publicized, the increasing seriousness of the situation is not yet generally recognized."

In 1955, the black teenage unemployment rate was 1.5 times the white rate, they point out. In 1973, it was 2.4 times that for white youth.

The Prospectus goes on to say that for all blacks "the unemployment rate runs consistently at just about twice the rate among whites."

"A real affirmative action equal employment opportunity program," the authors add, "must include, for those adults who have been discriminated against, at least the offer of a chance to acquire that education or training that they missed out on and that has now become the qualifying condition for so many more jobs."

The Prospectus, which presents a number of solutions to blacks' education/work problems, was derived from a two-year study conducted by a special council made up of 24 national leaders from education and business. The council was assembled by the National Manpower Institute, a group founded in 1970 with the expressed aim of "helping to better meet the nation's manpower needs."

This council, under the stewardship of Mr. Wirtz, generally agreed that learning and earning should be treated as part of the same process, not separate, unrelated functions. They conclude that communities should bring the worlds of education and work together through the creation of local education/work councils.

These local councils, which NMI recommends be set up initially in 25 cities on a trial basis, would assemble leaders from schools, businesses, and labor to figure out ways for education and industry to cooperate.

"The tying together of education and experience at the high school level, organized and facilitated by the proposed Community Councils, would create a vital access route to better jobs for black youth," according to the Prospectus.

On the national level, NMI supports the creation of a Work Institute for stimulating collaborative effort to maximize work satisfactions and meaning.

The Prospectus also suggests that the following could and should be done within the next two years:

* Creation by federal agencies of a comprehensive Outlook and Career Information reporting system to keep records on the training force and to project future manpower needs;
* Establishment by communities of procedures ensuring that all high school and college students receive at least five hours per year of career guidance and counseling from both professional trained and work- or service-experienced counselors;
* Development and administration of programs providing youngsters with the opportunity for at least 500 hours of work or service experience;
* Institution of a comprehensive program of community internships and work apprenticeships, as well as recognition of a considered break in the formal education sequence;
* Inventory of the extent and effect of laws, practices and customs that, constrain or otherwise influence people's movement between education and work;
* Coordination of the policies and efforts of national and state bureaucracies dealing with education and work;
* Removal of all state laws and regulations that bar adults from elementary and secondary public education;
* Revision of unemployment insurance laws and regulations to permit and encourage the use of periods of unemployment for training and education, and revision of the public employment program and concept to include a significant training and education element; and
* Improvement in current employment and unemployment statistics to provide a more reliable basis for measuring problems and determining future policies on work.

In addition, as examples of reforms that could be carried out over the next five years, Mr. Wirtz and NMI propose:

* That all adults receive one year's Deferred Educational Opportunity.
* That those adults who have not yet received 12 years of formal schooling be entitled to as many years of free public education as they have missed, up to four years.
* That instruments for social planning be developed comparable to those commonly employed for economic planning. Specifically, such instruments would include a set of social indicators for measuring the use and growth of the human resource, a Council of Social Advisors to the President and a Joint Social Affairs Committee of the Congress.

"The new American imperative," the report concludes, "commends the new American prospect: of growth unlimited, based on the fuller development of what is inside people as individuals."

The Boundless Resource is being published in book form by The New Republic Book Co., Inc., of Washington, D.C.

Veterans Must Beware Missing Deadlines

For some veterans entertaining thoughts of attending college Winter and/or Spring quarter, an important deadline is nearing.

Dick Stracke, veterans' coordinator at Fort Steilacoom Community College, has announced that veterans separated from the service prior to June 1, 1966, have only until March 31, 1976 to apply for educational benefits.

Veterans recently discharged also have a number of deadlines which they should be aware of. Those with service connected dental problems have one year in whch to obtain treatment. This one year does not apply to veterans with dental disabilities resulting from combat or service injuries.

Insurance deadlines range from 120 days to one year for conversion of the Serviceman's Group Life Insurance to an individual policy. Disabled veterans have one year from their notice of disability rating to obtain low cost GI insurance.

There is no specific time limit in which unemployment compensation can be applied for; however, veterans are urged to apply as soon as possible because the longer an individual waits, the less time there is for compensation entitlement.

Openings for Winter Quarter are still available at Fort Steilacoom, but applications should be made immediately. Information on admission to the college, and veterans' information, can be obtained from the Admissions Office and the Office of Veterans' Affairs.

Seminars Deal With Problems of Retarded Citizens

For the past four months the Washington Association for Retarded Citizens, (WARC), with support of the Washington Commission for the Humanities has conducted three, in a series of four, seminars concerning the deinstitutionalization for retarded citizens.

In the next four years, state government and institution officials are planning to place eighty state-owned, and twenty-six privately owned, group homes for retarded citizens within Washington communities. In order to measure the effect this will have upon both community members and citizens, the WARC has been conducting these seminars for a wide variety of the community, its public officials and its educators.

It is vital to the community that we have a measure in which to make an accurate prediction of the future of the deinstitutionalized retarded citizen, and the community in which he or she is placed. In order to accomplish this we need input from all facets of the community, and have fallen short of our goal. There has been no sharing of ideas from almost all Pierce County Citizens. Therefore we urge you to attend our fourth and final seminar on December 3, 1975 at 7:00 p.m. which will be held at the University of Puget Sound in McIntyre Hall, Room 006.

The topic covered will be "The Providers: Should society be responsible for providing institutional and/or community life for its retarded citizens?" The featured speakers include Lynne Iglitizin from the University of Washington, and Donna Pugh Riemath, a parent of a retarded child, and Director of the HELP Center for retarded adults. Their involvement should provide an exciting and informative seminar.

We urge you to attend. Your knowledge and views are greatly needed.

Emergency Contributions Needed:

The Black Press Of America Urges You To Support The NAACP

The national office of the NAACP has sounded the alarm, the economic crisis has taken a toll on its operating expenses. For years, the association has charged $2.00 for its basic membership, which is held by the majority of its 450,000 members. This membership fee will be increased in 1976. However, in the present financial crisis, the Black Press of America is cooperating with this venerable civil rights organization, and we are making an emergency appeal for individual contributions ranging from $1 to $100, so as to establish a firm economic base for the national office of the NAACP.

"The price of freedom is eternal vigilance." For sixty-six years the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has been in the vanguard of the fight to make the American deed approximate the American creed. With Black America earning an esstimated $63 billion during 1975, and despite the economic woes which beset Blacks, we have the economic resources to pay for what we NEED rather than squander our substance on things we WANT.

The NAACP needs a testimony of faith from 25 million Black Americnas who believe in what it has done and what it will continue to do in freedom's cause. Give what you can, but let no one who reads this editorial refuse to give something Now, the NAACP needs you! Your financial contribution might guarantee that when you need the NAACP it will be able to respond as a guardian of our rights and our liberties.

Tribute To Justice Douglas

With the retirement last week of U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, the nation's highest judiciary body loses one of its most venerable masters. More importantly, the American people have lost the services of an untiring champion of truth and justice. The aging Justice Douglas has dedicated a long and honorable career to upholding the rights and dignity of individuals against a governement which increasingly seeks to penetrate the lives and activities of its citizens.

Since his appointment by President Franklin D. Roosevelt decades ago, Justice Douglas has rendered decision after decision favoring the position of small people against giant vested interests, minority rights against the tyranny of the majority and unpopular causes against the nearly deafening cries of mass conformity. Often Justice Douglas has found himself the lone voice of reason on an issue where later developments reveal that his thinking was ahead of its time.

His record on decisions and opinions that directly effect the welfare of Black Americans is impressive, and his honesty and courage is legendary. Unfortunately, events are moving in a direction which indicates Americans are likely to regret that Justice Douglas lost his final battle, against the irresistable force of failing health which, in the end, wouldn't permit him to stay on the bench long enough to cast what might have been the deciding vote to end the atrocity of capital punishment in this country forever.

It is one of history's bitter ironies that the man to whom it falls to find a replacement for this great jurist is President Gerald Ford, the very man who once spearheaded a dishonorable, unsuccessful attempt to impeach him because of his political views. We can only hope that President Ford has matured somewhat from those halcyon days when he was House minority leader, and that he will be inspired by Justice Douglas's sterling career to find a person who is not merely qualified to do the job, but who possesses that extra genius that would enable him to perform as brilliantly as his predecessor.

John Calhoun Appointed Special Assistant To President Ford

WASHINGTON, D.C. ---- White House Aid John Calhoun, a strong advocate for minority economic development and staunch supporter of the traditionally Black Colleges, has been appointed Special Assistant to the President and will focus on the area of minority affairs.

President Ford announced the appointment on Friday, November 21. He succeeds Stanley Scott who has resigned.

A former Foreign Service Officer, the 38-year-old Presidential assistant brings a variety of experience and understanding of government to the top Black post on the White House staff.

Calhoun will continue to hold his post as Director for Media Relations under his new title. A member of the White House staff since 1973, he has served as Staff Assistant and Deputy Special Assistant to the President.

During an interview in Washington, Calhoun said he viewed his appointment as a "once in a lifetime opportunity and as a very important challenge, and I am grateful for both."

He promised to concentrate on establishing and maintaining a two-way dialogue between the Executive Branch and minority communities throughout the nation. "If it happens at the White House, or Commerce Department, or any Department of the Executive Branch, or in the Congress, it concerns all Blacks. Only through full understanding and full participation can we insure that the needs and concerns of minorities are addressed by both the private sector and the Federal government," he said.

He praised both the appointed and career blacks who serve in government and promised to work closely with them in the joint pursuit of good government.

Calhoun was Director for Minority Communications for the Peace Corps in 1971 and later became Special Assistant to the Director of Public Affairs for Action until 1973. Between 1970 and 1971 he was Director of Public Affairs for national programs of the National Farmers Union. He was Chief of Community Relations for the Military District of Washington between 1969 and 1970. He was Public Affairs Representative for the United Nations Activities in Tokyo, Japan between 1967 and 1968.

He completed the requirements for a BA degree in Journalism while in the Armed Forces, 1960. He attended the University of Maine and earned his LL.B. in 1970 from Blackstone School of Law. He received his BA degree in English at Eastern Nebraska College in 1972, and has completed additional studies at the American University, Catholic University, and the University of Wisconsin. He received his Doctors of Law degree (honorary) from Edward Waters College, Jacksonville, Fla. in 1975, and is a doctoral candidate in Behavioral Science at the Open University in Clayton, Mo. He resides in Maryland.

When The Juice Spills

It took precisely one game to decide the NFL rushing title this season. It took two games to turn it into shambles. Is there anyone or anything in the world that can stop this mangificent running machine named Orenthal James Simpson?

If this, the seventh season of his career and the third season of his immortality, the Buffalo Bills' O. J. has long since rendered ludicrous the thought that there lurks some defense that can keep him from his appointed yardage. Using his animal instinct, combined with speed, quickness and shiftiness, the Juice can destroy even the best defense. He disputes all the theories of running a back is taught to follow. His strongest weapon is his speed. A world-class sprinter (9.4 hundred man) at USC, a member of the four-man relay team that set a record of 38.6 in the 440 in 1967, he used this prowess in that remarkable 2,003-yard record smashing season of '73.

The Juice is a together human being as well. Says teammate Reggie McKenzie "As Black men, we need to know that no matter how successful another brother becomes, he won't cop out on his soul.
